

Kempe Interdisciplinary Summer Research Institute

August 7, 2017-August 11, 2017 [Anschutz Medical Campus | University of Colorado]

Course 1: Fundamentals of Clinical and Epidemiological Research

Two-part course designed for clinicians from multiple disciplines interested in learning fundamental research principles appropriate to developing new research on child abuse. In addition to didactic sessions, this course will include intensive mentorship from senior researchers with expertise in child abuse research.

Possible Credits Earned:

Part 1 of course can be awarded 1 graduate credit for 15 hours contact time.

Part 2 of course will be awarded 1 additional graduate credit for 15 hours contact time with participation in seminars and research project mentoring of the student's research project.

*Participation without the awarding of graduate credit is free, made possible through the support of the Walton Family Foundation.

Course 2: Challenges in Child Maltreatment Research

A course designed for trained researchers from multiple disciplines who are interested in applying their disciplinary expertise to examining topics related to child abuse. In addition to didactic sessions, this course will include intensive mentorship from senior researchers with expertise in child abuse research.

Possible Credits Earned:

Part 1 of course 2 is eligible for 1 graduate credit for 15 hours contact time.

Part 2 of course will be awarded 1 additional graduate credit for 15 hours contact time with participation in seminars and research project mentoring of the student's research project.

*Participation without awarding any graduate credit is free, made possible through the support of the Walton Family Foundation.

Tuition Costs:

Colorado SPH tuition for each course is awarded with the following charges:

- CO Residents: 1 graduate credit at $778 with an additional $190 application and matriculation fee. The cost for 2 credits will be $1746.
- Non-CO Residents: 1 graduate credit at $1288 with an additional $190 application and matriculation fee. The cost for two credits will be $2766.
